Official Contest Rules. All design and construction must be fully completed within the contest period of January 1, 2008, to December 31, 2009. The individual entrant must be the person who designed the kitchen. If a team of two or more designers enters the contest and is selected as a regional winner, only one trip for two and one cash prize of $500 will be awarded. The designers must decide who will attend the contest celebration.

Sustainable “Green” Category Entry Details. We would like to recognize the design community’s commitment to sustainable living when building and remodeling homes, by including a sustainable “green” category in our contest. Kitchen entries must include at least one full-size Sub-Zero built-in or integrated unit and Wolf cooking appliance as its primary food preparation equipment. This includes ranges, rangetops, ovens and cooktops. Wolf ventilation, microwave ovens and warming drawers are not included. For a list of Energy Star and energy efficient Sub-Zero and Wolf products, go to growagreenkitchen.com. Other requirements may be any of the following initiatives:

- Utilization of space. Rework an existing area in a flexible and efficient manner.
- Reuse of existing materials. Reuse existing materials such as cabinetry, countertops and sinks. Minimize changes to location of plumbing, gas and electrical.
- Recycling or disposing of materials. Recycle appliances, cabinetry, and other materials or donate to a charitable organization for reuse.
- Use of sustainable products. Use sustainable flooring, cabinetry, countertops and other materials. Keep in mind that some sustainable materials may not be considered “green” due to nonsustainable shipping costs.

Sustainable “Green” entries must include all of the following:

- Completed official entry form with model numbers of the Sub-Zero and Wolf products.
- Floor plan and elevation or perspective drawings, (8.5" x 11" format preferred).
- A minimum of two 5" x 7" or 8" x 10" color photographs of the completed design. Additional photos are welcomed with “before” shots if possible.

Designer or firm name must not appear on any plans, narrative or photographs. Entries must be received by January 8, 2010 to be eligible. A panel of industry professionals selected by Sub-Zero and Wolf will evaluate all entries. The decisions of the judges are final. Regional winners will be notified and announced the week of February 8, 2010.
